

TOUR ETIQUETTE & INFO

I have been advised that times have changed since we did the last driving tour. Depending on who lives in these homes now, or along the same block, there may be paparazzi about. Also, it is forbidden in Beverly Hills to park on the wrong side of the street. So – I've designed the driving tour so that while in the Beverly Hills "flats" we drive up and down the streets in a brisk, organized manner – and without doing u-turns. I would advise you to slow down or stop for a few moments to take pictures from your car rather than everyone getting out and asking questions and milling about...which might upset the current owners. These homes are interesting but we also need to move along at a quick pace because we will want to spend more time once we cross over to the north side of Sunset Blvd.

I have tried to provide enough information to answer your basic questions about each residence. You can call me on my cell at 646-321-8504 with any questions as we drive along.

Once we finish "the flats" and head up to "Mists," "Twin Gables" et al, realize that most of these houses are on narrow cul-de-sac streets. We will have to do u-turns and we can get out of the cars and look around as these are not highly trafficked areas.

I recommend that you bring along snacks and drinks (although don't drink too much – there are not a lot of bathrooms on this route!) There are a few gas stations close to Sunset Blvd which I assume have some facilities, they include:

110 S Barrington – near Nelson's Halvern and Ashdale homes
Near the 405 freeway, which we cross over
Once we get to Pacific Coast Highway (PCH)

If for some reason you need to leave the caravan, let me or someone know by phone. You can later call again to see where to catch up with us next, or continue on with the directions on your own.

Enjoy your adventure!

Sharon

PS: I want to thank the club member (anonymous) who previous designed our driving tour, from which I liberally borrowed when setting up this one. I also coordinated with her on this new tour and updated info about some of the homes...the input was invaluable – thank you! ☺
